

Rich Energy Solutions with Constellation announce the launch of the 303025 campaign to reduce energy consumption with no capital outlay.

Rich Energy Solutions will help 30% of qualified privately held businesses in the greater Philadelphia area reduce their energy consumption by at least 30% before 2025 by installing more energy efficient lighting, software and HVAC equipment.

Summary

New Jersey based Rich Energy Solutions reveals that 60% of all privately owned companies with buildings over 40,000 square feet do not realize they could be saving between 20% and 50% on their energy bill by replacing aging equipment – and the government and utility companies will help pay for it.

By modernizing heating/air conditioning units (with free cooling to reduce mechanical costs during winter months), LED lighting upgrades and building management systems, Rich Energy Solutions was able to provide $208,000 in annual energy savings to the Graham Building a 25 story downtown Philadelphia office building. All of the work was completed in 3 months, under budget, delivering a 10 year positive cash flow of $1,509,200.

“One reason most companies have not upgraded their older, inefficient energy-draining equipment is because they do not realize there are utility rebates and no-capital-outlay programs from energy companies,” states Frank Rich of Rich Energy Solutions.

Large energy users, such as casinos, hospitals, long-term care facilities, schools, hotels and office buildings, are just some of those most likely to benefit from such no-capital-outlay programs.

Constellation’s Efficiency Made Easy (EME) enables its commercial and industrial supply customers to implement energy efficiency and other solutions without up-front capital expenditures. Through EME, eligible businesses may be able to fund projects through their monthly Constellation energy supply bill. Customers may realize immediate energy cost savings from reduced energy use while paying for the project over the term of their agreement.

For 100 years the Rich family has been in the mechanical contracting business and understands the challenges and solutions needed to see real energy savings.

“We have a simple no-cost, no-obligation process,” says Frank Rich, “Our customers fill out a one-page form and send it to us with one month of gas and electric bills. With over 1,000 completed energy projects, we look at our database to see how their buildings and current costs match up against projects that we've already completed. We produce a 10-15 page in-depth analysis of what the potential savings could be and with no charge to potential clients.”
